FRANCIS GILBERT ATTWOOD

FRANCIS GILBERT ATTWOOD was born in Jamaica Plain, Mass., on the 29th of September, 1856, and died on the 30th of April, 1900, in the house where he was born. He entered the class of 1878 at Harvard, but left college at the end of his junior year and began the study of art. The Harvard Lampoon was started during his sophomore year, and his first work appeared in that journal. After leaving college he studied under Dr. Rimmer and at the Boston Art Museum.

Mr. Attwood's special bent was in the direction of humorous satire, in which he was unequalled. He contributed, incidentally, to several magazines, and he was also, to a limited extent, an illustrator of books. But his principal work was done for Life, with which he was intimately associated from its first number to the time of his death. The series of drawings included in this book is selected from the monthly historical pages he regularly contributed to Life during his connection with that journal.
